Multicultural Engineering Program Orientation

Get a jump start on your first year at Penn State!

MEPO is a three-day orientation program that runs from August 21 through August 23, 2019. During this time, you’ll not only meet your fellow first-year engineering students, you’ll also have the opportunity to learn the ins and outs of Penn State’s College of Engineering and all of its student resources.

BY PARTICIPATING IN MEPO, YOU’LL REAP THE FOLLOWING BENEFITS:

- Move into your dorm room early
  - This is a big deal since 40,000 other students will be trying to move in during the scheduled time
- Participate in an engineering design competition to get first-hand project experience
- Pair with an upperclassmen student mentor for your first year of college
- Learn about and become familiar with study and personal resources on campus
- Meet other incoming first-year students in your field who will be taking the same classes
- Gain a competitive edge over other freshman (and upperclassmen) by building your resume
- Start your first year with 0.5 credits
- Network with top industry company recruiters at our networking luncheon

The MEPO Experience

“MEPO is the best way to be part of a family on campus.”
— Waldo K. Martinez, First Year in Mechanical Engineering, 2018 Mentee

“MEPO is more than an orientation to Penn State; it’s an orientation to a community of the best people on campus.”
— J. Griffin Noel Bartholomew Gonzalez, First Year in Civil Engineering, 2018 Mentee

“MEPO is an introduction to the engineering family that you’ll have during college. It’s a life changing experience that will leave a lasting memory for years to come.”
— Justin Sinclair, Senior in Electrical Engineering, 2018 Mentor
